

Head Quarters 7th Brigade

Camp Fraustlin Jan 8th 1862

General Orders

No 2

Untill further orders Commanders of Regiments will each day cause four Companies of their Commands to practice at firing at a target with ball Cartridges Two Companies will practice in the morning and will be excused from Brigade Drill, and two will practice in the afternoon and will be excused from Battalion or Company drill. The practice will first be by man at 200 Yards and a record will be kept of the distance of each mans shot from the centre of the target then by sections at 300 Yards then by platoons at 400 Yards and then by Company at 500 Yards All Company officers "presens for duty" will be required to be presens with their Companies during the whole time of practice and they will be required to be presens with their Companies during the whole time of practice so inform themselves and will instruct their men with such care that all may receive correct notions of the true principles of Rifle-firing Company Commanders will see that sentinals are properly posted and that all other possible means to prevent accident before the firing commences

By Order of
Brig. Genl Slocum

(Sd) Joseph Howland
Asst Adj's Genl

Official

Joseph W Bartlett Col

Mr. Goodrich

adj's

Co's I and K will take the afternoon of the 10th of Jan'y 1862 the two Cos will be in Command of Capt Achilles Jr.

Capt Achilles Jr.